

$20

GONE, BUT NOT FORGOTTEN: In 1911, due to overcrowding and conditions of the original building, a new cement block school was built by Boyd Brothers where the Seniors Peace Park beside the village post office is today. This photo of S.S. No. 22 was taken shortly after the school was completed and was part of a series used by the Boyd company of Osgoode Village to sell its innovative building block. The school would be later destroyed by fire in 1944. The first school built in the village was literally a little red school house, built at 5516 Osgoode Main Street where Fagioni garments is located. Part of the little red school was moved to the old 237 village Main Street and continues to be used as a garage.

Osgoode Village Community Association

The Osgoode Village Story

The Osgoode Village Story

A HOMETOWN HISTORY
of Osgoode West, Osgoode Station and Osgoode Village
1801-2006

Edited by Joe Banks